

Lucy and her husband Jim vacationed at the Colony Beach and Tennis Club in 1979 and fell in love! When the children were off on their own they moved to The Landings in Sarasota in 1999 and to Lakewood Ranch in October 2001, and have never looked back!

Lucy, a political science major in college with a master's degree in counseling, was a stay-at-home mom during the years that her children were growing up. During that time she was an assistant Democratic registrar of voters in Hamden, CT for 11 years and even ran for a position on the town council in 1973. She got involved in political campaigns starting in 1970 and has remained active and interested ever since.

Before moving south permanently she was a pollster for Quinnipiac University Polling Institute. During Florida's "boom years" in real estate she worked as a new home sales consultant for Anchor Builders and enjoyed the challenge and the thrill of the creative process.

She was a founding member of the Lakewood Ranch Democratic Club in May, 2008 and remains dedicated to supporting Democratic values here on the Suncoast.
